

- New Album & New Zealand Tour -

4 years in and 4 records down, Margaret River, West Oz fluid groovers Blue Child Collective are set to bring their newest offering, “Wake Up To The Sound”, to Aotearoa for a 5-show-only duo tour to share their stunning stripped back live show, featuring songs from the new album, along with many unrecorded rearrangements of tunes from their entire back catalogue.

Fresh off an Australian tour as a 5-piece to promote the release, Blue Child Collective have been creating waves that have earned them a recent nomination for West Australian Music’s Best Regional Act, hours of radio play across Australia plus support slots for The Cat Empire, Sticky Fingers, Xavier Rudd, Sola Rosa and many more.

Fronted by Dan White, director of The West Australian Guitar Festival, entertainer of over 10 years, a poignant lyricist and fingerstyle artisan, this is music with purpose and fire. From his thought-provoking lyrics to the Collective’s engaging live performances, “Blue Child Collective is connecting people through music” (Scenstr). Joining him for the shows is Kiwi-born songstress Emjay Angeni, who will be bringing her solo show back home to share, featuring a swathe of new songs from her upcoming album.

Captured at Yama-Nui Studio on Queensland’s Sunshine Coast by PaulieB (The Beautiful Girls/Bobby Alu/George), the new album “Wake Up To The Sound” is a sonic journey in which the magic of the location can be heard - from thunderstorms to singing tropical birdlife - yet will transport listeners far beyond their own backyard.

Building on a solid foundation resulting from years of national and international touring with a new documentary soon to be released and the full band set to join for their next visit, this opportunity catch Dan & Emjay performing in an intimate setting is not to be missed!
